Members of Engine House No. Is have become expert in the art. They are able to make one complete shawl, of any design, eix feet square, in between four and a half and five hours. Four men work upon the shawl in a shift.

The men have constructed a large frame of tough, white pine, and around this frame they have driven in 28 nails. The shawls are worse upon this apparatus. And they are made faster than can be done with knitting needles; they are made as well, and their designs are worked far more evenly. In values, the woven shawls run from 20 up.

E. C. Twitchell, an agent for the Barkine Manufacturing Company, is the missionary who brought knowledge of this work to Washington. He has spent several years instructing the fremen of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking, and has append the habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking, and has append the habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking and has append the habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking, and has append the habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking and habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking and habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking and habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking and habit from the farmed of the country in the gettle art of shawlmaking the farmed of the shawls, and probably would have completed fifteen more had there been

PLEA MADE FOR PEACE

Bishop Currier Describes Herrors War to the Fifteen Hundred Worshipers Present.

Cabinet, diplomats from every Central and South American republic, and eccle-slastical dignitaries among the L300 wor-shipers present, the sixth annual Pan-American mass was solomorated.

Enhancing the spiender of the sanctinary scene—the brilliantly lighted and flower—the brilliantly lighted and flower—the description of the scarled three brighted and the scarled three brighted and the scarled three brighted and the scarled three brightent. The cardinal was preceded by a score of altar boys in scarlet and white vestments, who escorted him to the elaborate cathedral. When the cardinal had taken his place on the three the celebration of the mass began.

Waste Due to War.

In a voice noticeable for its clarity and strength Bishop Currier graphically portrayed the waste humanity suffers as the result of war. Pointing to the image of the Saviour hung upon the cross. the speaker dramatically exciaimed, "There is our remedy; love thy neighbor as thyself,"
"The keynote of our annual PanAmerican celebration of Thanksgiving is peace, one of the greatest hiessings God bestows upon man here below," said Bishop Currier.

"To form as acquaintance with those borrors, pass beyond the glitter of the moment, the martial music, the brilliant uniforms, the flying banners. Contemplate the sickaning sight of the battle-field, with the carnage, its blood, its grim death, its misery upon which only viitures feed. Think of the homes made desolate, of hearts that are bleeding, of wounds that will never be healed. Tell me, after this, can you still love war? Shall we not rather say to hie brave men and women who strive to impede it. 'Continue on the path you have chosen; the blessing of beaven will attend your efforts, and the Christ of the Andes shall be no empty symbol."

Poliowing the celebration of the mass, a luncheon of prominent guests, which the

CHRISTMAS MUSIC FEATURE.

Motet Choral Society to Give First Concert December 10,

Motet Choral Society to Give First Concert December 10.

Christinus music will feature the program of the first concert of the season to be given at the Columbia Theatre on December 10 by the Motet Choral Society. Under the direction of Otto T. Simon, the chorus is rounding into shape and the early holiday concert blds fair to be one of the most successful in the organization's history.

The first program has for its beginning and end the musical expression of two great events, the crucifixion and of the mativity. The first part is in the form of a Motet of the seventeenth century, "Crucifixas," which is in six parts with Latin words, the music by the Councest Lotti. A second Motet follows, "Masericordias Domini," by Durarits, which is also of the seventeenth century for Juliano Hosen of the Russian achieve vein "Signings Enchantment," in "The Eventury Star." The next number is an dight-part chorus by Bantock, "The Tiger," the words by the great English poet, William Blake.

As the closing part of the concert Christmas music will be sung in the darkened thearre, with only the lighted tree about which the singers group, relieving the gloom. The program ends with the traditional "Weiknachts lied, SIIII Vachit," song in the original by the chorus about the tree. The chorus numbers wolces.

Representative Crisp Believes Residents of District of Columbia Are Unduly Favored.

Are Unduly Favored.

Representative Crisp, of Georgia, author of a resolution in Congress to repeal that portion of the organic act that provides that one-half of the expenses of the District government shall be paid by the United States, expects to raise a point of order against the passage of the District appropriation bill.

Mr. Crisp hopes to persuade Congress that District residents are favored beyond their due. He would give them suffrage and representation in Congress. For this, according to reports, the District would support what government buildings there are here.

In the platform on which he ran for Congress, Mr. Crisp said:

"Its drastic action in ordering sessions day and night, including the holidays, appears to be unwise.
"This method may push the bill through by main strength and may reduce the time of debate ten days or two weeks, bit it will arouse party animosity which will detract from the merits of the discussion.
"Another possible result is that the Republicans may now resort to a filibuster out of reseatment."
